

BETWEEN LOVE AND HONOR

In 1839, after decades of conflict, the Russian army and the Muslims of Chechnya are on the verge of a truce. To prove his commitment to peace, warrior chief Imam Shamil offers a hostage: his son Jamal Eddin. But once the truce is signed, the Russians spirit Jamal Eddin back to Russia, where Czar Nicholas “adopts” the boy. Immersed in imperial court life, Jamal Eddin matures into the consummate courtier. Still he maintains his Muslim faith — until he falls in love with...

Reader's Opinions

This book had the most uneven pacing I've ever seen. First, we have to wait 1/3 of the book for the kidnapping of Jamil by the Russians. This portion of the book is pretty gruesome in its depiction of mass death and violence. And then we have to wait another 1/3 of the book for Jamil to fall in love. And then, the falling-in-love part...

I'm sorry, but I just have to throw in the towel. I gave it the ol' college try (which is a phrase I've used before, but this time is apt as I'm actually going to college; part-time, true, but it counts and... I'm babbling, so I'll be moving on)....
