

LAY IT DOWN

Paradise can be hell. Most people would say being stranded in the villa of Spanish shipping magnate Miguel García Arquero on the beautiful isle of Ibiza wasn't such a bad deal. But Hudson Barber isn't one of them. To him, being stuck without a passport in a foreign country far from home is a nightmare, made worse by the fact that the person who did the stranding was his flighty twin brother. Unwilling to turn Dalvon in for identity theft, Hudson is forced to wait, but meanwhile he...

Reader's Opinions

Hudson and Dal are twins. Dal has always been the pretty one and Hudson the more practical and down to earth. When Dal finally finds a steady guy Hudson couldn't be happier. All he has ever wanted is for Dal to find some security so Hudson could relax...

I adored this book. It was sweet and fast-paced. Plus, Mary makes me smile with her words and that's never a bad thing.
