Peek Inside the Book

In the war on terror, anyone may be designated the enemy. The president claims that only he may make this designation, and that his designation is conclusive and may not be reviewed by any court. Joseph Margulies, Guantanamo and the Abuse of Presidential Power: Guantanamo and the Abuse of Presidential Power // the most important question is not whether the government has the power to incarcerate a person almost invariably, it does. The proper question is whether that power has been exercised lawfully. ## Reader's Opinions

A balanced and insightful first-hand analysis of the legal morass that is Gitmo. A hugely important work for lawyers, civil rights activists, political scientists and voters alike that also begins to tell the human consequences of one of the greatest war crimes of the Bush presidency. The most critical and unanswered question is when...
